Garrard Milling Co.

Lancaster, Kentucky.

Mrs. John Logan of New York is here visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Rella Arnold will hold her opening on Saturday of this week. She has a large and well selected line of pretty hats that are not surpassed in any market.

I have secured the agency for the Chi-Namel stencil patterns and will have on display, finished samples, etc., at R. E. McRoberts & Son drug store, Saturday Sept. 30th. The Ladies are invited to call and see them. Mrs. L. N. Miller.

Mrs. Charles P. Weaver of Louisville will speak at Teachers Institute next Thursday on school improvement. Mrs. Weaver is employed by State Federation of Woman's club to speak throughout Ky., and is now organizer of school improvement leagues. She has met with great success and comes to Lancaster under auspices of Woman Club of Lancaster. All interested in good schools are cordially invited to hear Mrs. Weaver.

Deaths.

Mr. William I. Ralston who has lived almost seventy five years in Garrard county, and who was one of the most highly respected of the citizens of the Paint Lick section, died at his home on White Lick creek last Friday. Mr. Ralston had been in failing health for a considerable length of time. After services at the church at Manse conducted by Rev. C. C. Brown, his remains were interred in the cemetery at Old Paint Lick.

Their Visit To Be Made Pleasant And Profitable.

The teachers who attend the tri-county Teachers Institute next week are to have a pleasant as well as a profitable time. Teachers will be here from Boyle and Mercer counties and on Tuesday night at the College building they will be tendered a reception by the Garrard county teachers, and during the week Supt. Higgins has in addition to able instructors, provided entertainment in the way of lectures by some of the best talent of the state.

Institute.

The tri-county Institute composed of Boyle, Mercer and Garrard will convene in Lancaster October 2. A reception will be given by the Garrard teachers on Tuesday night at the school building.

On Wednesday night Supt. Cassidy and Mrs. Stewart will each lecture, and on Thursday night Prof. G. D. Smith of the Richmond Normal School will give an illustrated lecture. Mrs. Charles P. Weaver and other distinguished guests are expected during the week.

Suburban Farm For Sale.

By authority of Judge L. L. Walker, executor of the will of T. B. Walker, deceased, we offer for sale, privately, a fertile farm of 265 acres, adjoining the City of Lancaster, Ky., on the North, East, which yields abundant crops of all the money making products which are more valuable than other crops because the marketing is much less.

It has a large new barn and fronts beautifully on Richmond avenue, within the City limits, thus solving the problem of County and City life by combining them into one. A splendid farm, fronting on a concrete walk with the advantage of electric lights, telephone, pavement to churches, post-office, stores and one of the best schools in the State, is easily worth $30,000 more per acre than the same kind of land far out in the country. We can sell it as it is, or include a handsome residence which can be connected by an intervening tract of land. The farm can be sold in several tracts. Call on

HUGHES & SWINEBROAD.
Real Estate Agts. Lancaster, Ky. for speedy recovery.

There will be preaching at Herring School House Sunday afternoon. Every body invited to come out.

Farmers Union Meeting.

The Stockholders of the Paint Lick Local of the Farmers Union will meet at the Court House in Lancaster, Ky., on Saturday September 30th at two o'clock, for the transaction of important business. This organization is assuming godly proportions in the county, and the farmers claim that much good will result therefrom.

County Court Day.

An unusually large crowd was in town Monday, even for September time, and there was more stock than has been seen here in several months. There was probably 200 mule colts here, but few of them selling, the farmers not caring to take what they considered the small price offered for them. What sold brought from $50. to $110.

Good Attraction.

One of the best attractions seen at the Lancaster Opera House in some time was witnessed on last Thursday night in "The Man On The Box." The play is an exceptionally strong one and was well rendered, but owing to the fact that sufficient time was not given to properly advertise it, they had a small crowd. The management has promised a return engagement in the near future.

Damage Suit For Calvin Elam's Death.

Attorneys retained in the damage suit of Calvin Elam's administrator against the Bourbon Home Telephone Company and the Paris Gas and Electric Co., were yesterday taking depositions in the case which will come up for trial in the Bourbon Circuit Court the November term. The suit is against the corporations jointly and the petitioners pray for damages to the extent of $30,000 for the death of Elam which is alleged to have been caused by an electric light wire crossing a dead telephone wire of the Home Company. Elam coming in contact with the dead wire is alleged to have knocked him from a pole, while in the discharge of his duties as lineman in the employ of the telephone company, causing his death. The defendant is represented by Talbott & Whitkey, while the plaintiff companies have retained Judge Denis Dundon and Hon. C. M. Thomas.

Bourbon News.

Calvin Elam was a Garrard county boy who went to Paris to work for the telephone company, and was killed after being in their service but a few days.

Sick All Improved.

We are glad to be able to announce that all those who were reported sick in last weeks issue are improving.

Judge Walker is still at the Lancaster Hospital, where he will be confined for some time, however, he is doing as well as could possibly be expected, his temperature is keeping well under control, he is resting well and barring the unforeseen, it is only a matter of time when he will be able to eat.

Coleman Gulley is up and was able to take a drive on Monday.

Mrs. Sallie Ross Lawson is able to be up and is gaining strength rapidly. Little Guy Watkins has a pretty severe attack of typhoid fever, but is reported as being better and improving slowly.

Lillard the young son of Mr. Adam Kelly, who also has typhoid fever is also improving, and is thought to be well on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Dr. Amon who has been seriously ill and who recently suffered a severe relapse is very much improved, and her condition at present is such as to inspire her friends with hope for

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Edward Cosby Terribly Burned While Filling Gasoline Tank.

About two thirty o'clock Wednesday afternoon while Edward Cosby was filling a gasoline tank in front of Haselden Bros' store from a Standard Oil wagon, of which he was the driver, he accidentally spilled some of the oil on the ground and also on his clothes which were already saturated with oil and grease. A match had been dropped on the ground near the tank and upon this the young man unknowingly stepped, instantly he was a mass of flames and dropping his can of gasoline he fled in terror across the square, he was finally captured and thrown to the ground and rolled over and the flames extinguished; not however until he had sustained horrible burns about the arms and legs principally, and some burns about the body. The flesh and skin coming away from his body in shreds when the smoking clothing was cut from him. He was hurried to the rear of McRobert's drug store and Drs. Acton and Kinnaird, with the assistance of Mr. McRoberts and the citizens, did every thing in their power to alleviate his terrible suffering. After the physicians had dressed his burns, he was taken to the Lancaster Hospital where he is resting as comfortable as possible after his terrible experience.

Young Cosby is from Junction City, and even while undergoing such suffering, he had sufficient presence of mind to request that his mother be not apprised of his accident, as she was sick. The young man has been in the employ of Mr. J. W. Sweeney for some time, driving the oil wagon, and Mr. Sweeney and all who know him hold him in high esteem, and hope his injuries may not prove as serious as they first appear.

Thursday morning—Mr. Cosby died at half past two o'clock this morning and the remains were taken to Junction City for burial. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved Father and Mother. He was the only child.

Struck Popular Chord.

The Record's recent article advocating the extension of the water works to Dix river seems to have struck a popular chord as many citizens have expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of the proposition.

It is to be hoped that the City Council will take the matter up and see if it be plausible to go into the matter at this time.

We surely do need better water.

Squire McKecknie Dead.

Squire Jas. McKecknie died at his home near Hubble this morning at 5 o'clock of stomach trouble. He was 50 years of age and came to this country from Scotland when he was 14 years of age.

He has been living in Lincoln county for the past 10 years and shortly after he moved there married his present wife who is a sister to Hon. J. E. Robinson county attorney of this county. Mr. McKecknie was well liked by all who had the pleasure of knowing him. He is a Magistrate of Lincoln county and before he lost his health was prominently mentioned for county judge of that county. He was of the pure Scottish type and had lots of wit. He recently returned from the old country and wrote THE RECORD several letters that were much appreciated by our readers.

Lincoln county has lost a good citizen by his death and he will be sadly missed by the good people of the Hubble section. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss.

The funeral will be conducted by Elder D. M. Walker at the Hubble church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and his remains will be laid to rest in the Lancaster Cemetery.

The Reciprocity Treaty, the measure so ardently advocated by President Taft, and which was the occasion of the calling of an extra session of Congress, which was but recently closed, after having passed the treaty and given it the endorsement of this country, has met overwhelming defeat at the hands of the Canadian people, overwhelmingly defeated, together with most of its advocates in their election held on September 21st. The result of the election was 131 conservatives and 81 liberals, almost a complete reversal of the old regime in which the liberals had a majority of 43, whereas they now have a majority of 50 against them. This means the retirement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the "Grand Old Man" of Canada who for nearly two decades has guided the destinies of the Canadian provinces, and who was the leader and most ardent supporter of the reciprocity pact's endorsement in Canada, and which worked his undoing.

The principal and most effective argument used to defeat Sir Wilfrid, his followers and the friends of the treaty, was that it was but the initial step toward the annexation of Canada by the United States, the parting of the ways. This argument was used by the spellbinders with telling effect, it appealing strongly to the sentiment and patriotism of the masses, the result being a landslide against the adoption of the treaty. The new government in Canada stands pledged to internal expansion, and favor the "closed door" to this country.

President Taft expressed his chagrin at the defeat of the measure in the following words: "I had hoped it would be put through to prove the correctness of my judgment that it would be a great thing for both countries. For me it is a great disappointment. It takes two to make a bargain, and if Canada declines we can still go on doing business at the old stand."

A recent editorial in the Lexington Herald calls attention to the fact that the old high bridge could be used to great advantage by the Traction Company, who is promoting the building of interurban lines through central Kentucky, as the most economical as well as the most feasible way of crossing the Kentucky river.

We agree with the Herald in its statement in regard to this matter, but the railroad people who own the old bridge have decided to dismantle it and sell the material which was used in its construction. They will after the old bridge is dismantled strengthen the new one by means which were not permissible during the life of the old bridge. "Tis" an ill wind that blows nobody good. Had the Traction people been able to secure this bridge as suggested by the Herald, it would have considerably diminished Garrard county's opportunity to secure the extension from Nicholasville, the prospects for which we consider more rosy now than ever before. Had they been able to secure this bridge, the chances are that the road would have been extended into Harrodsburg, Danville, and when it was built into Lancaster, as it would be but a branch line. As the circumstances are at present, we still contend that we have "the only way."

The capitalists are slow about moving in this matter, but the project has not been abandoned, nor will it be, the road will surely be built, and we believe Lancaster will get the main line, but these people must take their time, so let us not lose patience, but continue in our efforts to secure this road, and when the time does come to act, let us be ready to act promptly and in a manner that will tend to enhance the value of our territory as the most advantageous in the eyes of the promoters as the proper route for the proposed road.

The Louisville Evening Post thought it could embarrass Edward J. McDermott by asking him how he would vote on presiding officer of the Senate if the vote on the County Unit bill was a tie. But Mr. McDermott is not a phrase-making, hair splitting, dodging lawyer. In his speech at Columbus on Monday, Mr. McDermott answered Mr. Knott and pledged himself, in the event of a tie, to obey the instructions of his party, and cast his vote for the extension of the County unit. He is always frank, truthful and sincere. The people can absolutely rely on any statement he will make. His word is his bond.

As the result of a raid made by post office inspectors who charge them with operating the old 52-cent get rich quick scheme, Daniel N. Morgan, ex-Treasurer of the United States, F. Tennyson Neely, Jared Flagg and five of their associates, including a clergyman, are in the Tombs prison in New York in default of bail ranging from $10,000 to $25,000. Their scheme has been in operation three years and they are alleged to have harvested $1,500,000 from it in that time.

At Somerset a Casey county jury found Fount Helton, charged with the murder of Squire Beatty at Burnside, guilty and fixed his punishment at life imprisonment in the penitentiary. On the first ballot ten of the jury were for the death penalty. Ellis who was charged with the same offense as Helton, was last week given the extreme penalty by a jury summoned from Lincoln county. Helton will be tried at the next term of the Pulaski court for the murder of Constable Heath.

In Louisville Saturday night entailed a loss of nearly a half million dollars and cost the life of three members of the Salvage Corps, Virgil Ferguson, Joe Dial and Richard Hardiman who were caught under falling walls. The wholesale millinery store of David Baird & Sons, where the fire originated, was a total loss, and great damage was done to Cannon & Byers and the Fairbanks-Morse Co. adjoining. The loss is largely covered by insurance.

Our new countyman, Mr. Dozier is reported to be a good citizen. As to his qualifications for the office of representative we are not advised. If he knows the needs of this county, he has been an apt student. It seems that our republican brethren should at least have found a nominee of whose eligibility to the office of representative, no question could have been raised.

On last Saturday P. C. Bearclaw, a workman of Cincinnati who was assisting in the tearing down of the old High bridge fell from the structure a distance of 275 feet, his body was literally plastered to an abutment extension forty feet above the water, he remains being scraped into a blanket by a rescuing party.

One day last week, Governor Wilson and Lieutenant Governor Cox were out of the State at the same time, but the old Commonwealth did not seem to miss them. It is the hardest thing in the world to make a Republican office holder stay at his desk and earn his salary.

Judge O'Rear will talk for hours about the Constitution, but you could not get him to devote a minute to the discussion of the Republican State and national administrations if you were to offer him a pension for life.

After the "steam roller" had flattened those Holtzclaw republicans in the republican convention at the court house on last Saturday afternoon, they declared in favor of the direct primary.

Governor Wilson is still swatting golf balls, while what does the poor fellow who is breaking his back in the tobacco patch for a pittance think of such extravagance?

POSTOFFICE

TO BE MADE A POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITORY.

Beginning October 18th the Lancaster Postoffice is to be made a Postal Savings Depository.

This means that savings may be deposited at the local postoffice, the payment of which the faith of the United States is solemnly pledged, together with what interest may accrue thereon.

Accounts may be opened by any person over ten years of age, by a married woman without the same being under the control of her husband, and the post office officials are required to be able to secure this bridge as suggested by the Herald, it would have considerably diminished Garrard county's opportunity to secure the extension from Nicholasville, the prospects for which we consider more rosy now than ever before.

AUNT SALLY'S CIRCUS

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Aunt Sally Davidson had reached the age of sixty-five and was living with a married daughter. She was a little, brisk old lady, and the care of two squalling young ones and all the housework fell on her shoulders. She could walk a mile with any one, and the Monday washing was always out before noon.

Aunt Sally was noted for her patience and good temper, but there came a day in this her old age to try her soul. A circus was coming to town, and to the utter amazement of her daughter, son-in-law and all others she expressed a determination to be a spectator.

"Why, ma, you are a member of the church!" exclaimed the daughter.

"So I am, but don't members of the church want to see a rhinoceros and giraffe?"

"And your minister will preach against the whole thing," added the son-in-law.

The circus was a week away yet, and during that time the matter was brought up again and again, but Aunt Sally stuck to her resolution.

The day of the circus came at last, and after a hasty dinner Aunt Sally donned her sunbonnet and freshly ironed calico dress and hied her way to the circus grounds. One last appeal was made to her as she was ready to go. The daughter had a red flannel petticoat that had been worn only three winters. This was offered up as a sacrifice, but was rejected. Son-in-law and daughter were so angry that they stayed at home. It was believed that Aunt Sally had borrowed the necessary half dollar somewhere, but in this they were mistaken. She was going without money and depending on Providence to see her through.

We who have depended on the same thing know in advance what answer Aunt Sally got when she walked softly up to the ticket takers and, putting on her most winning smile, said:

"Will you please let a poor old woman in to see the anaconda forty feet long?"

She was, of course, laughed at and told to go hence. "Hence" wasn't very far with her. In walking around the big tent she saw a boy crawl under the canvas, and she lost no time in following suit. She rose up among the benches and took a seat, and if any one ever enjoyed a circus it surely was she. She didn't miss a hand-spring, and when the performance was over she lingered and inspected the animals until turned out. On her arrival home she was met by sulky looks, but nothing dampened her happiness. She came near going over to the minister's to repeat some of the clownish jokes and ask where the wickedness came in, but had to be satisfied with saying to the daughter:

"Look here, now," she said in reply. "I'm sixty-five years old, and I've got to keep Hubber up to be worth anything around the house. We've got a lot of goose grease down cellar, and I'm going to rub myself all over and keep at this hand-spring business. I'll soon be able to do more work."

"I'll leave the house if you do!"

"I'll send for the minister to you," added the daughter.

A WORD WITH WOMEN.

Valuable Advice For Lancaster Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." When the kidneys get congested and inflamed, there are many such aches and pains and the whole body suffers.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. They can't get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have brought sound backs and new life and strength to thousands of suffering women. They are enforced by thousands—endorsed at home—Read this Lancaster woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. B. F. Walter, Hill St., Lancaster, Ky., says: "I never fail to praise Doan's Kidney Pills when I have the opportunity. I have never been without a supply of this remedy in the house for years and whenever my back becomes lame and painful, a few doses always bring prompt relief. For sometime I suffered from kidney trouble. The kidney secretions were unnatural and I knew that my kidneys were disordered. At that time it was my good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at Friesle's Drug Store. Through their use my kidneys were restored to a normal condition."

Eczema Cure A Beauty Wash. 2

Although D. D. D. Prescription has been recognized for years as the one remedy for Eczema, Psoriasis, and all other forms of skin disease, it is now known that there is no other wash, even those used by the beauty specialists, that can compare with this mild liquid for cleansing the skin of pimples, blackheads, rash, and all similar skin afflictions.

For this reason alone, a bottle of D. D. D. should be kept on hand in every household. A trial 25c bottle will show you the merits of this great remedy as a complexion wash.

D. D. D. seems to remove the cause, whatever the trouble may be, cleansing the skin, and leaving it as soft, as smooth and clear as that of a healthy child.

A Sympathetic Oriental

By EUNICE IDA BLAKE
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I am the wife of a United States army officer and have lived a good deal of my time on the Pacific slope, where the only servants to be had are Chinese. There is no doubt but the Chinese make very good servants if they wish to be good, but if they prefer to be bad they can excel at that too.

I married in the infantry and went out with my husband to a station where the Chinese were as thick as blackberries. I had the pride natural to a bride of showing how well I could keep house and appreciated the importance of winning the confidence of my servants, or, rather, at that time my servant, for the wife of a second lieutenant—neither she nor her husband having anything but pay—was not supposed to keep more than one.

My first Chinese servant was Ti Wang. Ti was the smoothest, softest tongued rascal I ever met. He had enough duplicity in him for an eighteenth century European diplomat. To him words were indeed intended to conceal ideas.

"You very young wife," he said to me. "You want very good Chinaman for cook. Muchy Chinaman very bad. Ti feel sorry for Melican lady. Ti he good cook."

All this was spoken with a look of condescension for a young thing like myself that to one familiar with the man from the Flower Kingdom would have boded no good. I did not doubt that my servant would be a great comfort to me. It was not long before his true inwardness showed itself. He first made an excuse of having a sick brother who couldn't washy-washy to provide for to wheelie me out of a mouth's wages in advance. Then he surreptitiously removed under his capacious coat and ample sleeves all the staple kitchen provisions I had bought to last several months. Tea, coffee, sugar and spices disappeared like magic. Then, having received an offer of better wages than I was giving him, he took himself off without so much as saying he was going.

My next servant was Charlie Li. Why so many Chinese are called Charlie I don't know, though Li is an appropriate name for them. Charlie was recommended by the major's wife, who had him in her kitchen for awhile when her regular servant was ill. She told me she would rather have Charlie than the other. I had no fault to find with Charlie except that he stayed with me but a day. He didn't stay long enough to ask for any wages, and since experience had taught me not to pay Chinaman in advance he didn't get any.

After this servants were passing through my kitchen, none staying with me more than a week. In vain I refused to engage one unless he would agree to stay a month. Something must be scaring them away. I didn't see how they could see anything in a young woman of nineteen to frighten them, and I was the only person with whom they came in contact. One of them, who was about to depart after three days of service, I asked why he left.

"You go Melican cook. Chinaman not very good in this house."

"Why not?"

"Donno. Chinaman won't stay here."

"Why do you go so soon after coming?"

"I am very well."

He did not seem to care whether I believed him or not. Indeed, he knew I was lying, and I knew it too. However, I had had such bad luck with Chinese servants—and there were no others to be had—that I made up my mind to do my own cooking for awhile.

Meanwhile my husband, who had been making inquiries for me as to servants from brother officers' wives, began to be considerably vexed that I could not keep any of them. There was no such loss of servants among those who sent me mine, and it appeared that I must either be too exacting or have a frightful temper or some other blemish that prevented a servant from working for me, whereas the truth was that after the earlier ones left I simply gave up trying to those who came later, granting all requests and opposing them in nothing.

I didn't even dare criticise the cooking of a single dish. The first time I had with my husband was when he ventured to remark that perhaps I didn't give them quite free rein enough. I resented the imputation with a fervor that sent him off to the officers' club and prevented his ever making any such suggestion in future.

One day I put the tin bread box in the sun, turning it up on its side and exposing the bottom. I was surprised to see Chinese characters on it. I wondered what they meant. When a woman begins to wonder what is the meaning of anything it is preparatory to making plans to find out. I called the servant of my next door neighbor, who was beating a rug, to come over and translate the characters. He did so as follows:

"This is a very bad woman. She doesn't pay the servants' wages and gives no extras."

That smooth tongued villain Ti Wang, who had pitted my youth and inexperience and had robbed me beside, had chalked a notice on the bread box warning all other servants against me. I waited patiently till his husband came in from his duties and, showing him the characters on the bottom of the box, handed him a translation.

SIX DAIRY ESSENTIALS.

On the recent trip which the Missouri Agricultural college special train made over the state cards were distributed giving the following six essentials for improvements in dairy farming:

Feed your cows liberally enough to allow the good ones to show up.

Cut out those that do not make a profit and keep the best. At least one-third of the cows in Missouri are unprofitable.

Weigh the milk of each cow regularly and have it tested monthly, if possible, by the Babcock test.

Use only a pure bred bull of a strictly dairy breed and from the kind of cow you wish to raise.

Raise the heifer calves from the best cows with great care.

Feed your cows silage, clover, cowpeas or alfalfa hay and one pound grain to three pounds milk produced.

RAISING HOTHOUSE LAMBS.

Interesting Experience of Shepherd With Cross Bred Sheep.

For our first venture in breeding hot-house lambs we bought ten Dorset ewes and a buck, writes a Maine Farmer in the New England Homestead. As these sheep were quite costly, we supplemented them with a flock of Shropshire ewes, crossing these with the Dorset buck and reserving the ewe lambs for breeders, continuing this practice until we had a flock of pure bred and high grade sheep sufficient for our wants. We disposed of all the Shropshire ewes and the half bloods, as they were not sure enough early breeders.

To show that it was not all smooth sailing we will mention that nine of the Dorset ewes of our first flock, from one cause or another, sometimes seemingly from no cause at all, died natural deaths.

The tenth one lived to be old and was sold with a nice lamb by her side. In the light of subsequent events we concluded she was a grade, although she came to us with registry papers apparently all correct, but some of her descendants in the third generation failed to develop horns. Be that as it may, she was the best and most profitable of the Dorsets we bought.

For the last century the sheep of Sussex have been justly famed for their ability as mutton producers. The short herbage of the chalk hills evolved a highly muscular animal that commanded high prices. Artificial encouragement that there has been the premier place in Shaldene competition. The breed did itself full justice in last year's shows. The picture shows a Sussex with an illustrated sketch of the rugged, full-mated type of sheep for which the breed is noted.

The same holds true of the sheep we breed ourselves. The ewes descending from the Shropshire stock, after having been continually crossed with Dorset bucks until they carried but a small fraction of Shropshire blood, were harder than the pure Dorset stock, bred just as early, and were as good milkers. This last is high praise, for Dorset ewes are great producers of milk.

The Dorset lambs are a bit too long in the legs and not as plump in the body as is desirable, so we have discarded Dorset rams and substituted Southdown bucks, giving lambs of ideal form combined with the great milking qualities of the Dorset ewes.

Windows In Horse Stable.

The windows in a horse stable should be so arranged that the horses are not required to stand for hours with the full glare of the sunlight in their eyes. Preferably they should be in the south wall, but not if the stable has been so arranged that a row of stalls faces directly on the south wall. In laying out a stable it is well to keep this fact in mind and so plan the arrangement of stalls that the horses will stand tall to or side to the south. Then that wall may carry enough windows to light practically the entire building. It is best that light entering a stable should fall on the horses from the rear.

Cows on Grass.

During no time of the year is a variety of feed so important as spring. It is true that grass is nature's own food, but it is too great a contrast from the dry feed fed during the winter. Dry feeds should be continued through May and June to make changes gradual.

Fat Content of Milk.

The percentage of fat in the cow's milk is determined by two things—first, the breed and, second, the individuality. The milk flow may be stimulated by feed, but the fat content cannot be affected under normal conditions.

CORN SILAGE FOR BEEF PRODUCTION.

The Indiana experiment station has done considerable work during recent years with the feeding of silage to beef cattle. In one test it was found that the corn brought 5 cents per bushel more when fed with silage and clover hay than when no silage was used. In a later test it was found that silage fed steers gained during a six months' period an average of thirty-nine pounds more per head than cattle of the same quality which were given no silage in the ration. It was also figured that the cost of gains was $1 per hundredweight less with silage than without.

In a third test made at the Indiana station, where four lots of steers each

Pure bred Herefords are second in numbers only to the Shorthorns, but they exist in the range country of the west, the greater number of them are company's cattle scarce eastward. In weight Herefords almost equal Shorthorns. However, they are shorter of leg and have great width. Broad, blocky and deep, compact with great chest capacity and having a vigorous constitution. Herefords are deservedly popular with western beef producers. On the other hand, their early maturity, uniformity of their growth and beefmaking ability make Herefords popular with cattle feeders in the corn belt and eastward.

Below follows the Landlord's Ten-Year Pooling Contract for 1911-1920, subject to such minor changes as may be agreed upon by the committee before named, together with Mr. James B. Haggan.

LANDLORD TEN-YEAR POOLING CONTRACT

Book No. 1911-1920, Crops, Pledge No. County, Ky., 1911.

This contract made this day witness:

"This in consideration of the benefits to be derived herefrom by the parties hereto, and that this contract is made by the undersigned and accepted by the hereinabove named Board of Control and Burley Tobacco Society, as a mutual contract with other contracts of like import, taken, and to be taken and entered into by and with many other growers of tobacco, which are of mutual benefit to all, the undersigned grower of tobacco owning and expecting to own Burley tobacco of the 1911 to 1920 crops inclusive, grown and to be grown on his farm, containing _____ acres (the usual crop grown on this land is _____ acres), bounded on the north by _____ on the south by _____, on the east by _____ and on the west by _____ in _____ County, Kentucky, hereby constitute and appoint the _____ County Board of Control and Burley Tobacco Society, corporations under the laws of Kentucky, as sole agents for the purpose of receiving, commingling, handling, warehousing, inspecting, insuring, grading, financing and selling one-half of all of the said tobacco in such manner and on such terms as the Board may prescribe.

"It is further understood and agreed that the pool will be closed on or before December 31st, 1911, in the discretion of the District Board, and that thereafter new members can be admitted, but the District Board of the Burley Tobacco Society at their regular annual meeting in October of each year, by two-thirds vote, may open the books of the Society for the admission of new members, such admission to be upon such terms and conditions as the Board may prescribe. The time for closing the books for the admission of new members shall be left to the discretion of the Board.

"It is distinctly agreed that the earnings, income and surplus made by the Burley Tobacco Company upon the 1909 crop shall belong to the members of the 1910 pool and that the Board of Directors of the Burley Tobacco Society may invest the same for their benefit in the discretion of said Board.

"The undersigned further agrees to leave his stock in the Burley Tobacco Company and to vote same so as to continue that Company.

"The undersigned further agrees that the Board of Directors of the Burley Tobacco Society may handle and manage said Burley Tobacco Company or any other Company in which the proceeds of his tobacco is invested, as provided by this contract, as in their judgement it is best.

"As stated before, the pool is closed on or before December 31st, 1911, that is, so far as landlords are concerned and it is further understood and agreed that any tenant or tenants growing tobacco the pooled farm shall have the right to pool any crop or crops in any year prior to a division thereof, if he or they may so desire, and it is left optional with said tenant as to whether or not he will take stock in such Company, but he can do so if he desires, to an extent not to exceed fifty per cent of the tobacco he pools; but in the event the undersigned has a crop or crops of tobacco upon pooled land, in which he has no tenant, he is, to the extent of the remaining fifty per cent of the crop not hereinbefore provided for, to have the privileges of a tenant in pooling same.

PLEDGE OF SIGNER'S STOCK.

The pledge providing that the signer's stock remain in the Burley Tobacco Company, follows:

"Not caring to pool my tobacco any longer and appreciating the benefits derived from the former pool, now, in consideration of the benefits to be derived therefrom by the parties hereto and that this contract is made by the undersigned hereby agrees to leave his stock in the Burley Tobacco Company and the Burley Tobacco Society, as a mutual contract with other contracts of like import, taken, and to be taken and entered into by and with many other owners of stock in the Burley Tobacco Company, which are of mutual benefit to all, the undersigned hereby agrees to leave his stock in the Burley Tobacco Company and to vote same as to continue said

Company and further authorizes the Board of Directors of said Company to invest his proportionate part of the income, earnings and surplus, made by the Company, by the handling, sale and management of the 1909 crop for the benefit of the undersigned in the discretion of the Board.

"The solicitors has no authority to change in any way the terms of this contract."

"Upon his failure to comply with terms and conditions of the contract,

J. B. HAGGIN

United With Tobacco People In Effort To Effect Ten-Years-Pool.

Mr. James B. Haggan of New York, "Master Of Elmdorf", millionaire farmer, turfman and dairyman has cast his lot with the Burley Tobacco Society, and has signed a contract with that society which will insure his hearty co-operation in the future, and, which it is thought will insure the success of the new "ten year pool" proposition. The contract entered into by the Burley people is in behalf of the white burley tobacco raisers of three states, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee, and it is thought will mean the pooling of this years crop, this matter however is not definitely settled, nor will it be until the regular meeting of the District Board of the Society in October. One of the provisos of the contract is that a manufactory be built in Lexington in which ten per cent of the pooled crop is to be manufactured each year, the remainder of the pooled crop to be sold on the open market.

"The Board of Directors of the Burley Tobacco Society shall dissolve the pool in any year provided two-thirds in interest of those who were members in the preceding year and are still members in the year in which the vote is taken vote accordingly, the proportionate interest of each voter to be determined by the quantity of tobacco which he may have grown and delivered to the pool in the preceding year.

"The Board of Directors may in any year order and provide for such election to be held at the time of the annual precinct election, or shall do upon the written demand of one-fourth of the members of the Society; said demand to be made by written notice to the Society thirty days before the annual precinct election.

"Should the undersigned make a bona fide sale of any farm or farms pooled under this pledge, or should the title thereto pass from him by descent or devise, then and in that event this contract shall be cancelled on the first day of January, following the sale, or change of ownership by descent or devise as to any tobacco grown on such farm or farms after such date; but the purchaser, or heir or devisees of such farm or farms shall have the option to become a party to this contract and to comply with and to carry out its terms and conditions—the exercise of which option shall be indicated by him on or before such date, to-wit, January 1st, by endorsing his signature to this pledge; but before a purchaser can exercise such option the vendor must indicate his assent thereto by his signature endorsed on this contract.

"If he does not consent to the exercise of such option by the purchaser, the vendor shall have the right to substitute in the pool in lieu of the land sold by him, an approximately equal number of acres of land, but his desire to make such substitution must be indicated on or before January 1st, following the sale of his pooled land by a written endorsement signed by him on the back of this pledge, which endorsement shall describe the land substituted.

"It is further understood and agreed that the pool will be closed on or before December 31st, 1911, in the discretion of the District Board, and that thereafter new members can be admitted, but the District Board of the Burley Tobacco Society at their regular annual meeting in October of each year, by two-thirds vote, may open the books of the Society for the admission of new members, such admission to be upon such terms and conditions as the Board may prescribe.

On The Shame Of It.

Danville claiming to be the principal seat of learning and culture in the state is without a Graded School.

Lewis Landrum who went from here there to edit a newspaper has discovered this fact, and we know that they will now have one, for when Lewis goes after a thing of that kind, it surely must come. Witness, the Lancaster Water Works and many other improvements which are principally indebted to his able pen for their existence.

Already steps have been taken in Danville for the establishment of a Graded School and the sense of the people on the question will be taken on October 21st.

A Move To Be Commended.

The City Council has passed an ordinance making it unlawful for persons to assemble on the streets or alleys of the city for the purpose of trading horses, and fixing therefor a fine of not less than $5, nor more than $15, for each offense. This act is aimed directly at "Jockey Row," an institution that has been driven from pillar to post all over town, and declared a nuisance by residents upon what ever street it changed to light, and now it is put, out of existence altogether.

To all those who are wont to gather on this thoroughfare on public days for "hoss swapping" and such indelicacies we would suggest that if you do not heed this ordinance, you will surely fall into the hands of Chief Herren or one of his deputies, and catch a fine in police court.

The following sales have been made. William Christopher to F. B. Patton seven肥牛 at 4 cents per lb. A. T. Scott to Mr. Lawson of Lancaster, 19肥牛 at 62 to J. W. Scott some 75肥牛 at 62 to Mr. C. Robinson some 6肥牛 at 44 cents.

Corn cutting has commenced, many farmers desiring to cut their corn as green as possible with safety because of the value of early cutting to the foder. Hay being high and scarce, foder will cut considerable figure in the winters roughness on the farm, and much more care is being exercised with it than usual.

But a few short weeks since farmers were ridding themselves of every head of cattle they could possibly spare because of the drought and poor outlook for grass. Now the shoe is on the other foot, since the copious rains grass is better than has been known in the fall for many years, and these same people are now searching for cattle for grazing.

Considerable headway was made last week in the cutting of tobacco, the weather being fairly propitious. What has been housed is curing nicely, but a large per cent of the crop is yet uncut, the recent rains following the drought.

reviving it and causing it to ripen slowly. The late cutting bids fair to far exceed the early cutting, both in weight and quality.

Hemp cutting in the county is about finished, the hemp spread, taken up and shocked. The crop this year falls far below the average crop in the county in acreage, but the quality is good. Owing to the uncertainty of the hemp market in recent years the raising of this crop has been abandoned by a great many of the farmers, who prefer to turn their attention to corn and tobacco.

Since the recent rains the live stock trade this and the eastern Kentucky counties, which was temporarily suspended, and the drovers are again to be seen on the road headed for the "Blue Grass" with herds of mountain cattle. Amie Burton of Level Green in Pulaski was the first one to come through, arriving here Saturday with a drove of fifty cattle for the court day trade, consisting of everything from cows and calves to some nice 900 pound feeders.

Mr. Tom Woolridge, who lives on the Lexington pike five miles from town, played in pretty hard luck a few days ago. Last spring he went to Garrard county and bought a pair of very fine mules and last Saturday they got out on the road and started back to their former home. Near Cuderville they were caught on the Cincinnati Southern railroad track, and one of them was cut in two and the other had two legs cut off by a train. Mr. Woolridge is a man of moderate circumstances, and this loss falls heavily upon him. Harrodsburg Herald.

More stock was on the market Monday than has been seen here in a long time. Mr. John Ross reports at his yards about 250 head of cattle, varying from suckling calves to 1000 lb feeders, all of which changed hands at prices ranging from 4 to 5 cents per pound. There were about 100 head of sheep, and they together with all the cattle were sold. Many good buyers from adjoining counties were in attendance, and stock of all kinds were in active demand.

J. F. Middleton, of Maple Grove Stock Farm, near Shelbyville, held a sale of Jersey cattle and Duroc-Jersey hogs there last Friday. The Jersey cattle, which included four head of aged cows and sixty-three head of heifers, brought a total of $12,865, an average of $177 a head. The top price was for Majesty's Oxford Lass, which for $1,050 was paid.

The eighty-three head of Duroc-Jersey brought a total of $2,000, an average of $25.

Among the mule merchants on the street Monday were to be noticed the Rankin Bros. of Boyle, Lincoln and Garrard, J. H. Baughman, R. L. Hubbard and the Eubanks Bros. of Lincoln, Bonta Bros. of Mercer, James Tewny of Boyle, Price Bros. of this place and many others, all seeking to purchase, and all succeeded in buying a few, but the majority of the mules were taken back home by the farmers, who are hoping that they will bring better prices later.

At the public sale of Duroc hogs of Messrs. Christopher to F. B. Patton, twenty肥牛 at 4 cents per lb. A. T. Scott to Mr. Lawson of Lancaster, 19肥牛 at 62 to J. W. Scott some 75肥牛 at 62 to Mr. C. Robinson some 6肥牛 at 44 cents.
